Link Up

Know Before
You Go!

I will travel to Carnegie Hall with my school for a Link Up concert.

At Carnegie Hall,
I will line up outside
on the sidewalk with my class and wait for the ushers to help me find my seat. I will follow the line.

My seat might be on the ground floor or one of the upper levels.

The floors are called the Parquet, Blavatnik Family First Tier, Second Tier, Dress Circle, and Balcony.

If I am seated in an upper level, I will go upstairs.

The seats are covered in a soft, fuzzy
material that feels like velvet.

There will be many students and teachers in the audience, and I will sit with my school group the entire time.

If I need to use the bathroom, I can ask a chaperone to help me find an usher who can show us to the bathroom.

During the concert,
the orchestra will play
music onstage and the students will sit in the audience.

The concert host or conductor onstage will let me know when it is time to move, sing, and play. There will be music on the screen behind the orchestra so I can follow along.

When the orchestra finishes playing a song, there will be applause. This shows the musicians that the audience liked the music. I can choose to clap too if I want to.

The Link Up concert will be a chance to perform with the orchestra from our seats. I will have fun!

After the concert ends,
I will travel back to my
school with my class.
